

chadmmiles.com

Design a portfolio site for Chad Miles to display graphic design, web design and showcase photography in a modern and interactive way.

chadmmiles.com will be a site to display the creative talents of Chad Miles across web design, graphic design, and photography. The site will be a primary location to display his photography for both recreational and business purposes. There are two main goals behind the site: 1. Display web development talent to recruiters in the IT field while applying for full time jobs 2. Act as a showcase for photography work in order to attract future clients. The site will communicate his current job status and whether or not he is open for work.
